FROM THE BARONAGE

Unto the populace of Vatavia, Greetings from Their Excellencies!

First, we want to offer our deepest thanks to Lady Lucia, Lord Robert, their team, and all who helped at Valor in any way. If you observed someone being wonderful, as Vativians are prone to do, please send us an email so they may be recognized!

Second...it hasn't been as hot lately, the first leaves are starting to turn—it's almost time for fall RenFaire! Lord Corrigan is the event steward for this demo. This is a great way for us to reach out to an interested audience and educate them about what it is we do! We are still in need of volunteers, particularly someone to run the pop booth. This is an important job—if you have enjoyed the new Baronial items purchased lately, you have benefited from the pop booth proceeds. There will only be one booth this time, so running it should be a cinch. Please contact the wonderful Lord Corrigan for details.

Another event coming up is Masters of the Duel, a cut-and-thrust event taking place the weekend before Thanksgiving at St. Patrick School here in Wichita. Karl zum Drachen is the event steward for this one, so be on the lookout for more information.

Finally, many thanks to Lord Corrigan (this letter seems to be developing a theme!) for putting together this Dragonflyer. Kolsveinn Stýrismaðr is our new Chronicler and he will be stepping into the role in the next edition. Thank you Kolsveinn!

Have we told you lately how honored we are to serve as your Baron and Baroness? We may be biased, but it's pretty clear Vatavia is the best. Vivat Vatavia! Vivat Calontir!

Yours in Service,
His Lordship Donald Macdonald, Baron
Lady Zoe Mikre, Baronessa

FROM THE CHATELAINE

Unto the fair populace of the glorious and awesome Barony of Vatavia do I, Lady Deirdre de Warenne, your Chatelaine, send warmest greetings...

We have newcomers! Yay! And they're awesome! At Valor, most of them either volunteered to help with stuff, or participated in various activities! If you haven't met them, introduce yourself and have a chat! You'll come away as impressed with them as I am!

Ren Fair is the end of September and I will be running the info booth. If you are interested in meeting potential new members, this is your opportunity! Talk to me about helping out!

This edition of the Dragonflyer marks 'Bring a Buddy' month (or 2) — if you've been chatting up a friend about the SCA, NOW is the time to bring them to a meeting!

In Service to the Dream,
Lady Deirdre de Warenne
Chatelaine of Vatavia

FROM THE SENESCHAL

Greetings Vatavia,

I would first like to thank everyone who showed up, helped, and enjoyed Valor this year. The Event stewards did an awesome job and I truly appreciate all your efforts.

Our Fall Ren Faire as well as Masters of the Duel are both happening in the coming weeks and months. Please speak with Lord Corrigan regarding Ren Faire and Lord Karl regarding Masters of the Duel. It will take everyone we have to make these things happen to the standard that Vatavia and Calontir deserves.

Officers, it's almost that time again. Before our next issue we will have entered fourth quarter. Which means third quarter reports will be due. Please get them in early as that allows me to do my report, and you kindom officers to get theirs in as well. Both they and I appreciate that.

Finally, we are on the bid rotation for Winter Coronation in 2016. This event will need to be held in the second weekend of January in the year 2016. Bids have to be turned in to Their Excellencies as well as myself, no later than December Officers' meeting. We are required to send an acceptable bid as part of our being a Barony. Please consider doing this and let me know if you need any assistance getting your bid together. It's a great event to run and one that certainly fun to hold.

Finally, thank you for everything you do. It is great to be a part of this Barony and I truly do appreciate everything you all do.

In Service to Crown and Kingdom,
Ottar Surtson

FROM THE KNIGHT MARSHAL

Hail and well met, Vativians!

The fighting at Valor 35 went very well. Thank you to His Lordship Kagemoto for overseeing all the fighting, and to all the other marshals that stepped up to help out. And, congratulations to the newer fighters that got authorized!

Speaking of authorizations, the new Fighter Cards are now up and available; all fighters should go to <http://falcon-sca.appspot.com> to do this. Also, the new Calontir Marshals Handbook is now out and available on the Earl Marshal's Website: <http://marshallate.calontir.org>

Sept. 27-28 is the Great Plains Renaissance Festival at Sedgwick County Park. Baron Sir Wulfric is the Marshal-in-Charge, while His Lordship Baron Alcyoneus will be overseeing Calon Steel. Come out and help to put on an excellent display of fighting prowess!

Finally, 3rd Quarter Marshals Reports are due by no later than October 15. Please get them in on time, and send me a copy.

In service,
Lord Corrigan Mackenzie

HARVEST FESTIVALS

by Friar Thomas Bacon (David Moreno)

The American Thanksgiving is one of the most famous of the fall holidays, started in 1622 by the Pilgrims in the New world, it was not a product of the mind of Governor Bradford, but has its roots dating back to antiquity. This essay will explore those roots.

Harvest festivals are as old as civilization itself, dependent as it was on the annual gathering of the crops. The ancient Greeks had the festival of Thesmophoria, dedicated to the goddess Demeter, and celebrated in November by married women only. The similar Roman feast was Cerealia, dedicated to the goddess Ceres, celebrated on October 4.

The oldest continuing harvest celebration is the Jewish Feast of the Tabernacles. Other names for this feast are: Succoth and Ingathering. Tabernacle and Succoth both derive from words meaning tent or shelter. While originally the harvest feast of the Canaanites, the Hebrews adopted it to their own ends after conquering Canaan. Lasting seven or nine days, activity centers around a specially build hut next to the house; this hut symbolizing the tents they lived in while they wandered for forty years.

The English harvest festival is called Harvest Home, and dates back to the Saxons in the ninth century. In Scotland, it is known as the Kern. These festivals began, not with the gathering of the crops, but with the end of the reaping.

In Northumberland, when the last sheaf of grain had been cut and stood on end, the sickle was laid down, and the reapers were now said to have "go the kern." A cry then sent up, and an image dressed in a white frock with colored ribbons was raised on a pole. This image ranged from a small doll-like figure, to a large rude construct barely capable of being lifted by one man. All gathered around this "kern-baby" or harvest queen, and formed a processional to the barn, where a large feast was served.

In Scotland, the image was called "the maiden," and was made of the last sheaf in the field. It fell to the youngest girl in the harvest field to cut the maiden, and dress her up. The maiden was preserved above the chimney piece until the next harvest. In northeast Scotland, the maiden was known as the "clyack or cailleach," both meaning old women. At the harvest feast, the cailleach was placed at the head of the table, toasted to, and even danced with.

To the south, in England, the last handful of grain was not cut, but tied up, and called a "mare." The reapers then threw their sickles at it, attempting to cut it down. The first one to succeed would cry out, "I have her!" The rest would reply, "What have you?" "A mare, a mare, a mare" the first would reply to his neighbor's query. "What will you do with her?" the rest would then ask. "We'll send her to John Snooks." would be the final answer. (John Snooks being the possible name of one the neighboring farmers who had not yet finished his reaping). This is called "Crying the Mare."

The bringing in of the last load to the barn was also a source of much festivity, surviving recently as the hayride. The wagon, known as a "hock-cart" or "horkey," was often escorted by a pipe and tabor. A poem by Robert Herricks, written around 1640, describes the scene:

"Come forth, my Lord, to see the cart
Drest up with all the country art.
See, here a Mauken, there a sheet,

As spotless pure, as it is sweet.
The Horses, Mares and frisking Fillies,
(Clad all, in Linnen, white as lilies.)
The Harvest Swaines, and Wenches bound
For joy, To see the Hock-cart crown'd.
About the Cart, heare, how the rout
Of Rural Younglings raise the shout;
Pressing before, some coming after,
Those with a shout, and these with laughter.
Some blesse the cart; some kisse the sheaves;
Some prank them up with Oaken leaves:
Some crosse the Fill-horse; some with great
Devotion stroak the home-borne wheat:
While other rusticks, lesse attent
To Prayers then to merriment,
Run after with their; breechs rent."¹

Among the songs that were sung while bring in the cart, the following has survived:

"Harvest home! Harvest home!
We've ploughed, we've sowed,
We've reaped, we've mowed,
We've brought home every load.

In Central Europe, the end of the harvest was celebrated by the farm workers giving a wreath of grain and flowers to the farm owner. The owner, in turn, would host a feast. In Germany, this wreath is known as "Erntekranz." In the Polish version, know as Dozynki, the wreath would hang on the wall until the following harvest. The Bohemian festival, Obzinki, has an added attraction. In some versions, the woman who bound the last sheaf was called the Baba. In other versions, the Baba was a doll made of grain, decorated with flowers and ribbons, The Baba would have the place of honor on the last wagon-load of the harvest. In some cases, towards the end of the feat, the Baba would be splashed with water to insure rainfall for the next crop.

While the primary aspect of Thanksgiving is that of the harvest, a Day of Thanksgiving was often declared for other reasons throughout the year. Two such noted days were for the defeat of the Spanish Armada in 1588, and the discovery of the gunpowder Plot of 1605. These also serve as roots of the Pilgrim's Thanksgiving.
